MEET SOPHIA

HER COMMUNITY KNOWS SHE'S RELIABLE.

HER BANK CAN'T SEE IT.

THE OPPORTUNITY

A chance to grow her business.

She needs financing for equipment and increased production.

WHAT ALREADY EXISTS

SUPPLIERS	CUSTOMERS	COMMUNITY	→	BANK
She pays	She delivers	They trust her		?

Her reputation exists, but it does not travel with her.

A RECOMMENDATION FOR OUR CLIENT

CREDIT BRIDGE

BOLIVIA

Turning the trust Bolivia already lends on into a credit record any bank can read.

TGM 507: GLOBAL ORGANIZATIONAL CONSULTING

Anagha · Carine · Karthik · Nishtha · Valorie

Bolivia's Existing Credit Foundations

Strong trust networks, but no records banks can see.

Pasanaku

Informal

Community savings circle, run on reputation.

Microfinance lenders (IFDs)

62%

of IFD clients use Crecer or Pro Mujer.

Trust works

87%

of Crecer borrowers post no collateral.

45%

The gap

of adults have no credit bureau file.

Our move

Make that trust visible to banks.

The Institutional Void: Invisible Borrowers

Banks cannot see small borrowers.

Where CreditBridge fits (Khanna & Palepu)

Intermediary type	Capital	Product	Talent
Credibility enhancers	Puento Credito
Information analyzers and advisers	Puento Credito
Aggregators and distributors
Transaction facilitators
Regulators
Adjudicators

Credibility enhancer: certifies the record.
Information analyzer: scores it.
Segment: bottom of market.

80.8%

of workers are informal

26.1%

of adults in the credit registry

144th

of 190 on access to credit

Symptom

Lenders demand collateral or say no.

Root cause

11.5% rate caps make lenders avoid unknown borrowers. Small business microlending fell 26%.

The fix: make borrowers visible.

Why We Build On Existing Behavior, Not Against It

Replace Pasanaku

We do not. Asking people to abandon a system that already works for them is how void-filling ideas fail.

Replace Group Lending

We do not. Crecer and Pro Mujer keep running exactly as they do today. CreditBridge adds nothing that competes with them.

Formalize the Trust

We do. Puente doesn't replace Bolivia's informal trust systems. It makes their signals legible to formal finance. Something a formal bank can read

That is the difference between a void-filling business and one that just adds friction on top of what already works.

Introducing CreditPuente

Collect

Regular payments business owners already make: suppliers, utilities, phone bills, cooperative dues, group-loan history.

Verify

With the owner's consent, records are checked and converted into a standardized credit report and score.

Access

The owner builds their own record free, in a mobile app. Banks and lenders pay to access verified reports.

Nobody's replaced. Something new gets added: a score that finally travels between the informal economy and the formal one.

Asset-Light, and Proof It Works

HOW IT WORKS

- Partner with existing microfinance lenders for data access
- Build and continuously refine the scoring model
- License report access to commercial banks and MFIs
- Launch with a licensed credit bureau to reduce regulatory risk
- Pilot in a few cities before expanding nationally

No branches. No loan book. No owned infrastructure. CreditBridge never touches credit risk itself.

PROOF IT WORKS

Creditinfo

Runs credit bureaus and scoring infrastructure in 40+ countries, much of it built specifically to extend credit visibility to underserved populations.

Destacame

Has run this same model in Chile and Mexico since 2015, converting utility and rent payments into credit history for 25+ partner lenders.

Challenges We May Face

Earning borrower trust

Small businesses may not trust a new company with their payment records.
How we manage it: Reach them through lenders they already trust.

Competition from existing players

Existing credit bureaus could copy our model once it works.

How we manage it: Lock in exclusive partnerships early.

Regulation

Credit information businesses are regulated by Bolivia's financial regulator (ASFI).

How we manage it: Secure licensing early or partner with an existing licensed credit bureau.

Resistance from State-heavy banks

Large state-influenced banks may resist working with a new intermediary.

How we manage it: Start with microfinance institutions and private banks most open to growth.

Monday Morning: Our First Move

THE FIRST CALL

We call Crecer IFD.

251,188 small borrowers. For more than half, Crecer holds their only credit record.

MONDAY

Request a meeting with Crecer

YEAR 1

Crecer and a bureau sign. Pilot: 5 lenders, 10,000 businesses

YEAR 2

Expand: 10 lenders, 30,000 businesses

YEAR 3

Scale nationally: 20 lenders, 60,000 businesses

OUR TEAM

Four starting hires: partnerships, credit scoring, compliance and borrower sign-ups.

OUR PARTNERS

Crecer brings the borrowers. The bureau brings the license. Banks bring the loans.
